About

Rasha El-Tawil is a partner in the personal injury law group. Rasha assists injured individuals and their families in all aspects of serious injury claims or fatalities with a focus on catastrophic brain injuries, spinal cord injuries and orthopedic injuries. Rasha and her team are dedicated to achieving the best results for her clients, inside and outside the courtroom. She is successful in obtaining settlements for her clients. When a claim cannot be settled, she is not afraid to take insurers on in the courtroom. Rasha has successfully represented clients at all levels of court in Ontario including the Superior Court of Justice, Ontario Court of Appeal, as well as administrative tribunals including the License Appeals Tribunal (LAT) and the CPP Appeals Tribunal. Her clients’ testimonials and referrals speak for themselves.

Rasha’s practice also includes civil litigation with a special interest in appeals work. Rasha has successfully argued appeals at the Divisional Court and Court of Appeal for Ontario. She has also been counsel on applications for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Rasha obtained a Bachelor of Arts, Honors Political Science & Philosophy from Western University in 2004. Upon graduation, she received the Gold Medal for having achieved the highest overall average in that program. Rasha graduated from Western University’s Faculty of Law in 2007. Prior to obtaining her law degree, Rasha completed international human rights, humanitarian & international law courses at the National University of Ireland. She worked at Community Legal Services from 2004-2007, providing legal representation in areas of civil, administrative, and criminal law. Rasha completed her articles with Siskinds and was called to the Bar in 2008.
